

An aerial photograph of a small, densely forested island. The island is covered in a variety of green trees and shrubs, with some brown soil visible at the edges. It is situated in a large body of water, which appears dark blue or black in the shadows. The surrounding water is calm, with some ripples near the shore of the island.

Rethink
Resource